Introduction

In 2014, the United States Congress passed a law called the ABLE Act. It stands for Achieving a Better Life Experience. The purpose of this law is to create a way for people with disabilities to save money easily without losing their public benefits.

In this booklet you will learn basic information about the ABLE Act. This is an overview only; it is not a comprehensive guide to ABLE accounts. You will find on-line resources in the back that will have more detailed, current information.

If there are words in this booklet that you don't understand, please go to the Glossary on page 31 for a simple definition of the word or term as it relates to the ABLE Act.

All the amounts of money discussed in this booklet may change in the future. Go to the California State Treasurer's website for the most current information.

The information in this booklet is accurate as of January 2022. Revisions will be made as new information is available.

Right now

Some people living with disabilities and their families rely on a variety of public benefits provided by state and federal government to make ends meet. Public benefits include Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Medicaid, CalFresh, Section 8 and other state and federal programs. These programs provide important support for people with disabilities but often do not allow individuals to save more than a total of $2,000 or earn a real income.

This means that people who have these benefits cannot save money, trapping them in poverty. Instead, people are forced to “spend down” any extra money they have leading to unnecessary purchases of things they don’t need or want.

Before the ABLE act was passed, the only method available for saving money without impacting benefits was to set up a special needs trust. Such trusts are useful, but they are expensive, complicated and do not give the beneficiary any control of the money.

Huge improvement

The ABLE Act gives eligible people a simple way to save without the risk of losing their public benefits. It also permits them to grow their savings through investments without being taxed on that growth.

These ABLE accounts are also called 529(A) plans. They are similar to College Savings Plans called 529 plans. Earnings and distributions are not taxed when they are used for qualified expenses. We will discuss these later.

Within some limits, a person can save money and still receive their full benefits!

In addition to saving money, the beneficiary owns the account thus giving them control over their own money.

Eligibility

To be eligible a person must be disabled before the age of 26. You can establish an account if you are older than that, if your disability started before age 26.

You are automatically eligible if you receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) or Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) and meet the age requirement.

You are also eligible if you have a disability with “marked and severe” functional limitations that will last at least one year. This may require a physician’s certification.

Establishing an account

ABLE account administration is set up by each state. In California, the CalABLE board, under the State Treasurer, is appointed to manage the ABLE account system.

Every person may have only one account at any given time. The account may be set up in any state. However, some states may limit their accounts to their residents only.

Most states have systems in place that allow people to set up ABLE accounts with thousands of accounts opened nation-wide. California's program, CalABLE, went live in December 2018.

Contributions

Anyone, including the beneficiary, can make contributions to the ABLE account. These are made after taxes are paid. There is no federal tax benefit for most contributors.¹ Beneficiaries may be able to claim a tax credit on contributions as described later in this booklet.

$16,000² a year may be contributed to an ABLE account. This is also known as the Annual Limit. However, a beneficiary who works may be able to contribute more as described later.

In California, the maximum amount you can have in an account at any time is currently $529,000³.

¹ Some states have state tax benefits for contributors. Tax benefits are based on the state of residence of the contributor, not where the ABLE account is established.

² The annual limit may be adjusted in the future.

³ The maximum amount may be adjusted in the future.

Working Beneficiaries

If a beneficiary works, they may contribute more to their account than the Annual Limit of $16,000. They can contribute either the amount of their gross yearly income or $12,880⁴, whichever is less. There are a couple of rules about this.

Only the beneficiary may make this extra contribution out of their earnings.

If there is an employer-based retirement account set up for the beneficiary, they may not contribute this extra amount to their ABLE account.

Regular annual contribution	$16,000
Contribution from earnings +	$12,880
Total annual amount =	$28,880

⁴ This amount is adjusted annually based on the federal poverty level.

Rollovers

529 College Savings Plans

If the beneficiary or a family member has a 529 college savings account, that money may be rolled over into the beneficiary's ABLE account. This amount counts towards the $16,000 annual contribution limit.

Other 529(A) ABLE Accounts

You may rollover funds from a 529(A) into another 529(A) from one sibling to another eligible sibling. This rollover does not count towards the $16,000 annual contribution limit.

Over the limit

If contributions push the account over the annual limit, contributions will be returned to the contributor. The last money put into the account will be the first money returned. The beneficiary will be notified when this happens.

Saver's Credit

When a low- or moderate-income beneficiary contributes to their own account, they may be able to claim a Saver's Tax Credit.

To be eligible for this credit, the beneficiary must:

- Not be a full-time student or a dependent,
- Contribute to own ABLE account,
- Owe taxes,
- As a single person, earn no more than $34,000 or, as a married couple, earn no more than $68,000 adjusted gross income per year.⁵

This tax credit is a percentage of the amount the beneficiary contributed to their ABLE account. That percentage starts at 50% for the lowest income levels and reduces to 10% for those closer to the high-income threshold. The maximum credit is $2000 for a single person, $4,000 for married filing jointly. The amount of the credit reduces the amount of taxes owed by the beneficiary. If the credit is greater than the amount of taxes owed, there is no refund of the remaining balance.

⁵ These amounts are adjusted annually.

Using your money

You can use ABLE funds to pay for Qualified Disability Expenses (QDE). QDEs are expenses that are related to one's disability, are for the benefit of the beneficiary and will permit that person to maintain or improve health, independence, or quality of life.

The ABLE Act is clear that the requirements on what a QDE is should be applied loosely meaning that most types of expenses should be allowed as QDEs.

You should keep good records of how you use your ABLE funds. It is suggested that you keep every receipt and have a log with a short description of every purchase and how it is a QDE. This may protect you if the Internal Revenue Service audits your ABLE account.

- ABLE account money may be used to pay for basic living expenses
- Expenses do not have to be medically necessary
- Expenses are still qualified even if there is some benefit to others; expenses that are only for the benefit of another, such as gifts or donations, are not allowable.

- Money used from an ABLE account for QDEs is not taxable

QDEs

- Education
- Housing
- Transportation
- Employment supports and training
- Assistive technology
- Personal supports
- Health
- Financial management
- Legal assistance
- Oversight/monitoring
- Basic living expenses
- Funeral/burial ⁶

⁶ See pages 29 – 31 for an extensive list of qualified disability expenses.

Non-qualified expenses will be taxed and have an additional penalty of 10% of the amount taken out. They could also impact your eligibility for MediCal or other public benefits.

Investing your money

Money in an ABLE account will be invested by the account managers contracted by the ABLE Board. In addition to contributions you make, this is how your account can grow. If your account grows through investments, that money is not taxed.

The other side of investment is that there is a risk that your account will lose money. Usually investments do some of both. One month you will see your account increase while another month it might decrease. Over time usually money that is invested increases more than it decreases.

When you have an account, you will be offered choices in how you want your money invested. Some options will have the possibility of a lot of growth; these options also have a higher risk of losing money. Other options will have a low risk of losing money, but these also will have lower growth. You may be able to choose a savings-type account with very low interest and no risk.

How you invest your ABLE account will be an important decision. We cannot cover all the information you need to know about investing here. Be sure to ask the person who is helping you establish your account what each investment option is so you can decide what you are comfortable with.

Account management

In California, the account manager has set up various investment options for ABLE accounts. If you have your account here, you will be able to select which one suits you for the growth and risk you want. You can change your investment option up to twice a year.

If you choose to set up your account in a different state, you will have to learn the rules for that state's ABLE accounts.

The ABLE account managers will report information about your account to Social Security every month.

ABLE and Social Security

One of the best features of ABLE accounts is that account funds will not impact your public benefits. The only public benefit that may be impacted is your SSI cash benefit.

In the case of SSI, you can have up to $100,000 in your account and still get your SSI check each month. Once your ABLE account goes over $100,000, your SSI cash benefit will stop, but you will remain eligible. If your account goes below $100,000, then you will start getting your SSI checks again.

A note on housing

SSI benefits can be affected if you use ABLE funds for any housing expenses and don't spend the money right away. To avoid any impact to your SSI benefits, be sure to spend housing money within the same calendar month that you withdraw the money. As long as you do not hold housing funds over from one calendar month to the next, the funds should not affect your SSI benefits.

ABLE and Other Benefits

ABLE accounts do not affect your eligibility for Medicaid – called MediCal in California – Section 8 housing vouchers, CalFresh or other benefits of these types. However, if you take distributions that are not qualified expenses, this could affect your eligibility.

Whose account is it?

An ABLE account belongs to the beneficiary. However, there are provisions made for those people that cannot manage an account on their own. These provisions allow a parent of a minor or legal guardian of an adult to establish and manage an ABLE account for the benefit of the person.

It is also possible for someone to manage an account through Power of Attorney.

ABLE vs. Trust

ABLE Accounts offer a different kind of savings possibility from a Special Needs Trust. An ABLE Account gives you more flexibility and control over your money than most trusts. Also, the cost of setting up an ABLE account will be lower making it a good option for people with lower incomes. Even if you have a trust account, it is worthwhile to consider opening an ABLE account for the flexibility and control it offers you.

What if the disability subsides?

For disabilities that may come and go such as those due to a chronic illness that flares up then subsides, ABLE accounts are frozen during periods when the person does not have an eligible disability. This means no money can be contributed and no money can be withdrawn.

If the person becomes disabled again and eligibility is reestablished, the account is unfrozen and can be used.

Examples

Example 1: Joe receives SSI and MediCal. Joe needs significant levels of support.

- He currently has no money saved.
- Joe received an inheritance from his grandfather of $19,000.
- He can roll $16,000 into an ABLE account (the annual limit) and “spend down” at least $1000 to maintain eligibility for SSI and MediCal. He can save the remaining $2000 in a regular bank account.
- Without ABLE Joe can only save $2000 and would be forced to spend the other $17,000 immediately to maintain his benefits.
- With his ABLE account he can use the money to get extra support not covered by his state’s disability services. He could use it to purchase equipment such as a computer or hire people to help him do activities he enjoys. He could also choose to save it for future needs.

24

Example 2: Sarah receives SSI, MediCal and a Section 8 voucher. She has a part time job where she earns $17,000 a year.

- She opens an ABLE account.
- Her grandparents contribute $300 each month to her ABLE account, for a total of $3,600 a year.
- Because she works, her annual contribution cap is higher, up to $28,880.
- She puts $17,000 into her account out of her earnings.
- With contributions from her grandparents and herself, she saves $20,600 each year in her ABLE account.
- At tax time, using the Saver's Credit, she is can deduct $2000 from the federal taxes she owes. She puts that savings back into her ABLE account.
- She can use her ABLE account to pay for her day to day expenses as well as to save up for an accessible van or other big-ticket item she really needs.

What now?

The Federal law was passed in Dec. 2014.

California's program, CalABLE was launched in 2018. To learn how to establish a CalABLE account, go to www.calable.org.

Most states have ABLE programs; many accept out of state account holders. You can find the current list and compare programs at the ABLE National Resource Center.

Whether you want to establish an ABLE account out-of-state or in California, it is a good idea to explore the ways in which saving money through an ABLE account could be useful in planning your financial future. Think about how to build your account and set goals for how it might be used to help you establish or maintain your independence throughout your life.

Compare programs

If you are considering opening an account, make sure to compare the programs offered by different states. Questions you should get answers to include:

- How does one enroll?
- Is there a minimum deposit to open it?
- What are the fees for maintaining the account?
- Does the cost differ for in-state and out-of-state residents?
- What are the limits on contributions?
- Are there any limits on withdrawals? Can you withdraw using a debit card?
- Regarding investments, can you choose the level of risk you are willing to live with?
- When can you change your investment options?

Go the ABLE National Resource Center to compare programs and get your questions answered.

CalABLE

If you choose to open an account in California (CalABLE), below is some useful information.

Opening an account

You will go on-line to open your account at CalABLE.org. The initial deposit must be at least $25.

The information you will need on hand includes:

- Social Security Number and government issued ID for the beneficiary. If there is an authorized legal representative, you will need their information too.
- Routing and account number of your bank account if you want to link it to your CalABLE account. If you do, you can transfer money between them.

Putting money into your account

You can put money into your account by mailing a check or setting up a transfer from your linked bank account. There is also an eGift portal so others can contribute.

Receiving money from your account

There are several ways to get money out.

1. Login to your account and request a check or a transfer to your linked bank account. It can take up to 10 days for the money to be available.
2. Request a prepaid Visa debit card. Login to your account to add money to it.

Fees⁷

All ABLE accounts have fees. In California they are:

- Account maintenance fee - $37/year
- Paper statement mail delivery fee - $10/year
- Check issuance fee - $5 for each check
- State administrative fee - $4.40 for every $1000 in your account (0.44%)
- Investment fees from 0% - .09% depending on your investment choices

⁷ Fees may be adjusted from time to time.

Benefits of opening an account in California

There are two advantages for California residents if the beneficiary has a CalABLE account. First, when he or she passes away, California's Medicaid program (MediCal) will not make a claim for reimbursement from the remaining ABLE funds. The state may recover assets that have transferred from an ABLE account to an estate.

Second, CalABLE accounts owned by California residents are exempt from money judgements.

When an account holder passes away

1. All outstanding qualified disability expenses may be paid using ABLE funds.
2. Once these bills are paid, the funds transfer to the person's estate.
3. MediCal will only attempt recovery if all of these conditions are met:
 - a. The deceased was 55 years or older
 - b. The person used comprehensive Medicaid services – In home support services, skilled nursing etc.

- c. The person's estate is required to go into probate - $150,000 or more in assets
- d. The person is not survived by a spouse or children under 18 or any child with a disability.

Glossary of terms

529 – A college savings plan

529(A) – ABLE account

Account Limit – the maximum contribution limit to an ABLE account

Beneficiary – a person who is eligible for and has opened an ABLE account

Contribution – money that is put into an ABLE account

Annual Contribution – the total amount that can be put into an ABLE account each year

Aggregate Account Limit – the total amount that can be in your account at any time

Distributions/withdrawals – money that is paid out of an ABLE account
