Californian employers are increasingly using apprenticeship programs to revitalize staff recruitment and development strategies.

Connect with your future workforce at the Apprenticeship Job Fair, an official National Apprenticeship Week event, hosted by the California Department of Rehabilitation and the Ready, Willing and Able initiative.

If you are looking for a new way to attract motivated and talented Californians, come along to:

- Connect directly with local high-school and community college students and individuals looking for a new career
- Learn more about the potential of apprenticeship and available employment and training subsidies

The Fair includes an exclusive opportunity to hear from industry leaders Joe Xavier (CDOR Director), Mark Erlichman (CDOR Deputy Director, Vocational Rehabilitation Employment Division) and Nicholas Wyman (President, IWSI America), about how the California Government is advancing apprenticeship employment opportunities and future trends in apprenticeship training.
